

You are invited!

8th Annual nPOD OPO Workshop

OCTOBER 10-12, 2017

ONE OCEAN
REMINGTON

What are people saying?

Thanks for the presentations, and thanks again for hosting such a great seminar. I came away with renewed excitement about the opportunities we offer our families through research placement, and I'm hopeful to continue to increase our OPO's awareness of the doors that research can open.

*~Clinical Recovery Coordinator
Washington Regional Transplant Community*

The Network for Pancreatic Organ Donors with Diabetes (nPOD) invites you to our 8th Annual Workshop, October 10-12, 2017 at the One Ocean Resort in Atlantic Beach, Florida.

Registration is free! Continuing education credits, hotel room, meals and entertainment are complimentary. Attendees are only responsible for their travel to and from the workshop.

nPOD relies on your research organ referrals to advance the research of over 200 worldwide scientific investigators, the world's leader in type 1 diabetes research.

This workshop is designed to give attendees a deeper understanding of the nPOD project and how the work that we do with our OPO partners helps to further honor organ donors and their families through meaningful research options.

nPOD Organ Procurement Organization Workshop Overview:

- Presentations by experts in the field of Type 1 Diabetes (T1D) research
- Messages from families living with T1D
- Sessions on the science of T1D and the current state of T1D research
- Virtual tour of the nPOD laboratory and our organ processing procedures
- An Opportunity to collaborate with OPO coordinators from around the country
- Earn up to 8 continuing education credits
- All meals provided, including a luau-style dinner
- A stunning ocean setting, with free time for beach fun!

We hope you can join us!!

Contact Kurt Reis at kreis@ufl.edu or 352-273-9271 if interested in attending. Space is limited, so reserve your spot soon.